

Along These Highways (Camino del Sol)

Rene Perez has the ability to stop time. In fact, time stops as soon as you start reading one of his short stories. You find yourself transported into the minds and lives of people you thought you didnt know. Suddenly they are your best friends. They live in Texas. Most of them are Hispanic. But their problems are universal. Like Alfredo, driving home from Dallas to Greenton with the body of his friend Frankie Ochoa in the back of his hearse and his son Ramon ready to drive if Alfredos eyesight fails again. Or Joey, just back from basic training and ready to ship out with his Marine platoon. Hes having beers with his best friend J.R. at Flojos, a bar outside of Greenton run by Liz and Vicente, the toughest couple in town. Or Benny, who drops into Flojos for the first time in years and finds his one-time friend Gumby drinking himself into oblivion. Turns out Gumbys luck is even worse than Bennys. Or Virginia, the schoolteacher whos trying to become better educated in the hope that her son who went to Stanford will come back home to Corpus Christi. Or Eric, who spent all his money on two flashy wheels for his car and put them both on the passenger side so that theyll impress everyone on the sidewalk as he passes. Or Andy, who breaks into a home hes always wanted to see from the inside. Youll want to know them all. And you will count yourself fortunate to have met them.
